BETWEEN HEAVEN AND EARTH

Through the Body Towards the Transpersonal Self in Psychosynthesis

ANNA BALDINI

ISTITUTO DI PSICOSINTESI
Firenze - Via S. Domenico, 16

This book introduces a method of body work developed for educational and therapeutical purposes in Psychosynthesis. It is also extremely useful in teaching Yoga, as well as for leading groups in body-mind integration.

"Psychosynthesis works with the body to develop, integrate, and harmonize the personality so that it can be more enriched and complete whether it is directed by the Ego or at the service of the Self. The body is an instrument of perception, expression, and action to be valued, cared for, developed, trained, disciplined, and co-ordinated with emotional, mental, and transpersonal aspects... Anna Baldini's book is an invitation to become acquainted with the body, to reappropriate it and prepare it for transformation".

From the introduction by the Directorial Committee of the Institute of Psychosynthesis in Florence

"This book fills a void at last, and offers the first organized approach to the subject. The book is eminently practical: without lingering over theory it leads us immediately and directly to experience our bodies, letting us discover, sense, breathe, move as we go through the nine stages of this itinerary... The book encourages us to be fully alert to our experience of our bodies, without any splitting off of the mind. The concluding symbol of a tree expresses the meaning of biopsychosynthesis. Our body grants energy and awareness of our multiplicity: from the various functions, to the levels of the unconscious, to the Self, the 'heaven and earth' of our being".
